Human history provides many examples of people and communities which have been dominated, or enslaved, by more powerful groups. But it also provides us with inspiring examples of heroic struggles against such domination. What is the cost of freedom, is it the people who have been willing to sacrifice or die? In its essence, the cost of freedom represents the desire of people to be in control of their own lives and destinies and to have the opportunity to express themselves freely through their choices and activities. Not just individual but societies also value their independence and wish to protect their culture and future.

However, given the diverse interest and ambitions of people any form of social living requires some rules and regulation. These rules may require some constraint to be imposed on the freedom of individual but it is recognized that such constraints may also free us from insecurity and provide us with the conditions in which we can develop ourselves. In today's political theory much of the discussion regarding freedom has focused on trying to evolve principles by which we can distinguish between socially necessary constraints and other restrictions. There has also been a debate about possible limitation on freedom which may result from the sound and economical structures of a society. In this third edition of our school magazine under the title "The Cost of Freedom" on the occasion of 75th Independence year the students from class IX tried to draw our focus on :

- To understand the importance of freedom for individual and societies
- To bring out the negative and positive dimension of freedom.

This August all Indians are set to celebrate yet another milestone in our life time – ‘75th Independence Day’ of our Nation. In every Independence Day we are reminded about the struggle that our forefathers faced, the developments in terms of technology and infrastructure, growth in economical conditions of individual and many more. Listening to all these, though makes us proud at one instance, yet the undeniable facts of growing poverty, illiteracy, violence based on caste, creed and region, denied freedom and rights of the people on the matters of social justice and truth, invite us to ask ourselves ‘Are We Really Free?’

This month’s E-Magazine invites all you readers to reflect on just one question ‘What is the Cost of Freedom?’ We have indeed gained freedom from the British oppression 75 years ago at the cost of many who sacrificed their life. However, today we who live in ‘Free India’ are still fighting for our freedom. In the current times, freedom can be achieved only at the cost of sacrificing one’s self-dignity, self-respect, self-belief, expression of thoughts and words, and even to the extend of sacrificing one’s own principles and ideologies just to gain the confidence, support and to live a struggle and problem free life.

We the Management, Staff and Students of St.Francis De Sales Sr.Sec.School, Gangapur City, invite each of the readers to reflect with us on this theme ‘The Cost of Freedom’ as we march to celebrate our Country’s 75th Independence Day.

I also thank and congratulate the staff and students of Class IX for their contribution for this month’s edition through their writings and art work.

I thank all the parents and readers of this E-Magazine for your encouraging words and support.

God Bless our Country!

God Bless All!

A Look Back at July...

Handwriting competition

“I like the process of pencil and paper as opposed to a machine. I think the writing is better when it’s done in handwriting.” Nelson DeMillie

Handwriting, an important aspect in every child during the school life is stressed upon and is encouraged through different ways. One of the methods is through Handwriting Competition which was held on 2nd July. The main objective of the competition was to encourage and inculcate within the students the desire to improve, better and beautify one’s writing. It was con-

Prayer Meeting, PTM and Unit test Examination

We cannot do anything without God. To seek the blessings and protection of God, a prayer meeting was conducted in the auditorium on 16th July. It was an enriching prayer session we had in the presence of the Supreme Being. Along with the prayers there were readings from the different religious scriptures. The main theme of the prayer was thanksgiving. There was a special prayer for Sr. Helen, the one who got transfer from Ganagapur City. Immediately after the prayer the teachers got ready for the Parent-Teacher Meeting.

The progress of the child in studies is possible only when there is a mutual understanding between teachers and parents. Keeping this in mind the PTM was held on 16th July. The parents gave a good response by coming to the school and discussing about their children with the teachers.

On 18th July 2022 First Unit Test was conducted for all the classes. The students have given their best in their exams. The exam got over on 26th July.

Story writing and colouring competition

Writing is one of the very important skills which we need to inculcate in us. To instill the habit of creative writing, the school had given a chance to write a story to awaken the innovative minds of students. Writing stories or essays would help them to be more spontaneous, natural, innovative, imaginative and realistic. As it is part of the curriculum this would also help in their exams to be more precise and logical. In order to show case the ingenuity and creativity story writing competition was held in our school on 30th July for the classes IV to XII students.

On the same day there was colouring competition for the pre-primary students. They were all enthusiastic to take part in the competition. The students brought their own colours and made colourful combinations to create meaningful images with their tiny fingers. They all participated with zeal which helped them to explore new ideas, creativity and sense of colours.

Art Integrated Project

Art Integrated Project (AIP) is an initiative taken by CBSE to enrich the students' knowledge about the different states in India. This would help the children to learn about the different cultures, traditions, food, festivals etc. With these intention AIP was conducted in the school on 25th of July by the English department. The students were instructed the way they have to make a comparative study between two states. All the students took part in it with full enthusiasm and vigor. This was conducted for classes I to XII. Some of them were asked to prepare a collage, some to present a skit, and in some classes it was an essay to be written. All the students did their best to showcase their talents in whatever way they were assigned. This was a new experience for the students of all the classes to know more and better about the different states.

“The price of freedom may be high, but never as costly as the loss of freedom.”

The freedom that we enjoy today is the result of the sacrifices of many freedom fighters in the history of India. They could not get the chance to enjoy the freedom which they were fighting for. So it's our prime responsibility to make use of the freedom in its true sense.

It's easily understood through with the example of a tree. The pain somebody has taken in the past has resulted the tree to be to its size and shape today and we take the advantage of it. Therefore it's our contractual obligation to take care of the things which are given to us by our forefathers and still create something out of it and make a better place to live in.

We understand how freedom is valuable only when we are restricted or when it is taken away from us. When we have all the facilities for us we don't understand the importance of them. So understanding the cost of the freedom we must make use of it cleverly, meaningfully and judiciously. Both the one who is taking away the freedom and the one who has no freedom must be liberated from the clutches of narrow-mindedness, prejudice, discrimination etc. They are also behind the bars of inequity. Therefore we need to understand the value and the importance of our freedom and enjoy the freedom given to us to its maximum without disturbing the freedom of the other. Wish you all the greetings of the 75th independence day of our motherland India.

Mr. Vinoth & Mr. Roy (Class Teachers of Class IX A& B)

Freedom Towards a Better Nation...

India has had a rich and varied history, one that isn't devoid of any struggles. For 200 years, India struggled to free itself from the shackles of the British Raj, making the fight to freedom a long drawn one.

The Indian independence movement was a great moment by various people from nooks and corners of the country. They had sacrificed their lives and soul for independence of their country.

Indians have always shown resilience under pressure. Trial by fire has been the stronger point for Indian freedom fighters. They have left behind a legacy of courage, fortitude and their unconquerable spirit. The sacrifices of Indian freedom fighters are the very reason India today stands proud and is walking into the era of new India.

"One individual may die for an idea but that idea will die after his death in carnet itself in a thousand lives."

Despite so many years of independence we still have many issues to attend to....

Let us make the 75th Independence Day more meaningful by working towards these issues. Our forefathers bought our freedom with their hard work and sacrifice. Now we must work hard to create a better nation for generations that follow. Happy Independence Day! Let there be freedom in your mind and body, faith in your words and pride in your soul. Let's salute our Happy independence day!

Is freedom costly?

The cost of freedom isn't measured in money...
 Or even in time...
 But in death...
 Death brought about by the fight for freedom...
 Death brought upon the young and old...
 Death brought too early...
 Death-with it comes pain"
 Pain cast upon everyone around...
 Pain that cause tears...
 Tears that run down a mother's face...
 A face wrought with fear...
 Fear that this continue to happen...
 Happenings to those brave enough...
 Those willing to give their lives for their country...
 But still this country...
 Measures the cost of freedom...
 Money and time wasted...
 Wasted away were potential greats...
 But only they know the cost of freedom...
 They gave their lives to protect the freedom...
 Freedom used and given everyday...
 But still they lay buried in the ground...
 With only a small crowd to honor them...
 The few who knew and loved them...
 They too, now know the cost of freedom!

The Cost of freedom...

Welcomed freedom with a blaze of glory
 It isn't a one day story
 Blood streams dominated the ground
 Not in a single day freedom was found
 Freedom was never free
 It costed the breath of life
 As is the air, let us also be
 Freedom was never free
 They fought the colonial power
 Just to bloom an independent flower
 Something they always admire
 The day of freedom is finally here
 Risked their lives many time
 Freedom today is yours and mine
 Seek the heaven this world beholds
 Experience the freedom legends died for
 For our tomorrow, gave their today
 Don't let your freedom go away
 Make your each day count
 Live your life with limits of no amount

The Parrot Speaks of Freedom...

Once upon a time there lived a very mischievous parrot; he used to disturb every member of the jungle. All of them were fed up with him, one day the members of the jungle called the parrot for a meeting.

The lion said, "Dear parrot, we are giving you the freedom of flying freely in the jungle and you are wasting your time doing the mischievous habits therefore we are giving you the warning so that you don't again make such mistakes next time". If you repeat the same, we will take away your freedom and will put you in a cage. Then the parrot lied to everyone that he would never disturb anyone. Then the meeting was ended and everybody had gone to their own homes. The next day parrot was insulting a bear because of his black and fat body. He laughed and made fun of him and then left the place. Then the bear went to the lion's den and complained about the bad behavior. One day the animals planned to put the parrot in a cage. At night the lion kept lot of tomatoes and chilies in the cage, when the parrot was tired of flying and came down, he saw his favourite eatable items and went into the cage without understanding it was a trap. Then suddenly the lion closed the door of the cage; the parrot was crying but in vain that everyone left the place. After this the parrot could never see the free world again rather spent all her life in the cage. Moral: - never waste your time and freedom because it will never come again.

What is the Cost of Freedom???

It's for sure that the price for freedom is not free but very costly; it was being paid with anguish, pain, time, sacrifice and life. We are able to live the way we do today because of many brave men and women that have sacrificed their life.

One person's life is big enough! Just imagine losing your father, mother and your other family members. Just imagine being drafted for a war that is known to be deadly. They all have paved the way for the future to evolve and develop. We have to remember that freedom allows us to choose our paths in life that are best suited for us. It is not something that can be passed to children from generation to generation. It must be fought for, protected and handed on to them to do the same. Soldiers can keep us free from the attack by other nations but individual citizens have the responsibility to maintain equality. People take freedom in a wrong way. In our selfishness, it makes us do things that are not good. It makes people think that they can do what they want because they have freedom. That is why we should salute and value all the people who have paid their lives for us.

When we speak about the cost of freedom, the first things that rushes to my mind is what would have happened if the freedom fighters have not gotten up from their comfort zone and hadn't chose to revolt against the British government then we would have really felt the worth of freedom but luckily we all are privileged to have that freedom and we should never forget how those great freedom fighters sacrificed themselves and the price of freedom has been paid for all of us.

Daril Chris

But let's think the other way if those great leaders would have sat in their homes and choosing the easy way then the life would have become harder than we could imagine but they chose the uneasy way, they left their comfort and came out of the shell to bring justice to all the people and their main weapon was unity but in today's world where is this unity disappeared before we all were one but now there is a division between people regarding their religion and if this continues, I am afraid but then we have to pay the cost of freedom. And without freedom we can neither give our opinion nor create a masterpiece that is why I would like to suggest keep following and relating to these words of Albert Einstein.

“For everything that is really great and inspiring is created by the individual who can labour in freedom”

Head Girl Shares

Our freedom is in our hands but everything we want has at cost or price. Just have flashback on the history we have studied or known about our great freedom fighters. Hundreds and thousands left everything. Many sacrificed their life for one common goal – freedom of India from foreign rule. We have to look in our self always what we are. If we want to gain freedom for yourself and for other. It needs redemption.

Tanisha Meena

We can only get our freedom by setting our self free for others our mind and soul should be free for all, even we all have come to surely depart one day for getting our body free, the cost of the freedom of our body is our life. When we understand the cost of freedom we can easily gain it. Most important is what price we are willing to pay for others to experience the same freedom we enjoy.
